Summer Sunscreen Survival Guide

3 Sunscreen Keys

- Broad Spectrum
Choose a sunscreen that protects from both Ultraviolet A (UVA) and Ultraviolet B (UVB) rays.
- SPF 30 or higher
SPF 30 blocks 97 percent of the sun's rays. Higher SPFs block slightly more, but no sunscreen will block 100 percent of rays.
— For every 2 hours of sun exposed skin, use 1 ounce of sunscreen.
- Water resistant
Water resistant: Up to 40 minutes
Very water resistant: Up to 80 minutes

Types of Sunscreens

- Gels and foams are great for hairy areas and for people who want a quick-drying sunscreen.
- Sprays are a quick and effective way to protect the extremities and trunk, but they should not be used on the face.
- Sticks are good for the eyes and lips.
- Titanium dioxide or zinc oxide-based sunscreens are better for sensitive skin.
- Creams are best for dry skin and the face.

Help from Your Closet

- A wide-brimmed hat can cover your ears and face.
- Avoid baseball caps and visors, which don't protect your ears and back of the neck.
- Choose synthetic fabrics, such as polyester, Lycra and nylon, over cotton.
